

Diogo Oliveira

Front-End Developer

About me

I am a curious young professional, passionate about IT. I'm switching career right now to be a Front-End Developer. I'm always thinking about my future and my passion about technologies made me switch career. I look forward to improve my skills and habilities aswell as my knowledge. I am currently looking for a international company with a diverse and open environment that could help me develop myself while being a value contributor for my team.
